

The Faces of Gaia

Climatic regimes, Social orders, and Senses of Ecology

June 6, 2024 - 10.30 to 18, Sala Rossa, Via Azzo Gardino 23

The conference looks at the climate crisis not much as a punctual event and an emergency reduced to the present, but as a process that develops in a non-linear time, which redefines the policies of coexistence and the relations between life forms, prefiguring new social orders and timescapes.

What kind of climate regimes does this transition bring about? How do these regimes unfold, on what scales and according to which interests? Where do they come from? What entities do they mobilize, with what sensibilities and through what devices? What kind of political, technological, and natural entanglements are produced, and with what effects?

Program and Speakers

Welcome and Introduction (10.30)

Claudio Coletta (University of Bologna)

Session 1 (11-12.30)

Temporal regimes of climate

Chair: Paolo Savoia (University of Bologna | SISS)

Michelle Bastian (University of Edinburgh | University of Oslo)

Julia Nordblad (Uppsala University)

Luigi Pellizzoni (Scuola Normale Superiore, Pisa)

Session 2 (14.30-16)

Organizing futures and senses of ecology

Chair: Paolo Giardullo (University of Padua | STS Italia)

Vando Borghi (University of Bologna)

Liliana Doganova (Mines-ParisTech)

Nicole A. Hall (Independent Scholar)

Round Table (16.30-17.30)

Climate, Activism, Sensitiveness, Governance, Temporality

Chair: Claudio Coletta (University of Bologna)

Andrea Bagnato (Independent Scholar, Writer)

Gioia Laura Iannilli (University of Bologna)

Carl Mossfeldt (Climate Transitions, Gothenburg)

Annalisa Pelizza (University of Bologna | Aarhus University)

Researchers 4 Climate Justice (Climate Justice University)

Wrap-up (17.30-18)

eventi.unibo.it/facesofgaia