

The future of transportation is already here. Alstom, with recorded sales of 7.3 billion in the 2016/17 fiscal year, is the world leader in integrated transport systems and continues to push the boundaries of innovation & digital solutions for transportation systems and e-mobility. We are at the forefront of providing sustainable modes of transport with the largest range of rail solutions in the market. Headquartered in France, we are present in over 60 countries and today employ 32,800 people worldwide. For more information, please visit: <http://www.alstom.com/>

GRADUATE OPPORTUNITIES in Alstom Signalling ITALY

Open positions for graduates:

- Design Engineers for Traffic Management System (TMS) Projects (national and international)
- Software Designers for ICONIS, Alstom TMS product
- System Designers Interlocking (IXL)

If you are:

- Graduate in computer science, computer engineering, electronic engineering, automation engineering or similar
- Curious about the world of transportation
- Passionate about complex projects

And you would like to be:

- Involved in a work environment that foster continuously the improvement of your skills
- In the epicentre of transportation development and help create the future of mobility
- A teammate in an international environment

Last but not least, the world of railway transportation is something that triggers your imagination...Please send us your candidature!

Alstom is committed to create a diverse & international working environment, that reflects the future of our industry, our clients and end-users. As an employee, you will have a unique opportunity to continue to build your career and directly contribute to the expanding growth of the global transport industry